Responsible to:	Ministries Development Manager – Faith Action
Date:	November 2024
Purpose of Post:	To lead the kirk sessions and congregations of an existing linkage into a closer worshipping and missional relationship. To establish strong values and ways of working as the first step towards an eventual team ministry with Lomond Parish Church.

Transition Ministry

The Church of Scotland employs a national team of Interim and Transition Ministers to provide specialist ministry support for local congregations and presbyteries across the Church. As part of this team, a Transition Minister works in a specific charge to lead on and deliver a set of identified and negotiated aims and objectives to support the shape of ministry across an area of presbytery to effect change and sustain the future mission of the Church. All Interim and Transition Ministers are highly experienced Church of Scotland Parish Ministers with a broad range of skills and ministry attributes, who undertake additional specialist training, where required. Transition Ministers are appointed on fixed term employment contracts, by the Ministries Council (on behalf of the Faith Action programme), and are line managed by a member of the national office management team. Transition Ministers usually live in the Parish Manse.

Parish Profile

Context of the Role

- Providing strong and visionary leadership to both congregations.
- Developing and implementing effective strategies to increase the visibility of both worshipping communities, promoting Christian values and mission, and guiding them through the challenges and opportunities they face as they seek to connect with one another and serve the broader communities.
- Leading the people in planning to identify needs and opportunities for meaningful community engagement as both congregations work to increase the church's involvement in their local communities, building relationships and partnerships with relevant organisations and initiatives.
- Working with and alongside the new Minister at Lomond Parish church (currently in the process of being recruited) to ensure all are working towards the longer-term vision of a team ministry.

- Introducing and developing a variety of worship styles and services, reflecting the diverse needs and preferences of the congregations and the communities and incorporating the use of IT equipment and digital platforms to enhance worship experiences.
- Supporting church members to actively participate in community activities and volunteer opportunities through the development of outreach programs targeting local schools, parent teacher councils, addiction support and working with other agencies to combat poverty.
- Providing careful and sensitive leadership to support office-bearers in financial planning.
- Developing and leading creative and engaging initiatives which cross parish boundaries to revitalise the churches, engaging both existing and potential members of each uniquely small and special urban and rural communities to foster vibrant, growing and outward looking congregations.
- Cultivating a welcoming and inclusive atmosphere which encourages active participation and involvement from all members as they move towards a long-term team ministry in the Vale of Leven.
- Leading and supporting the congregations through a ministry of transition, enabling others to participate and lead in worship, mission and the life of the church.

Key aspects of the transition will include:

- Both congregations finding a common focus for themselves while developing ways of working together as they mutually move forward, bringing a sense of connection within both congregations and with the various communities that are served
- Preparing and planning for working towards a new parish grouping that will include Lomond Parish Church
- Developing and implementing achievable and sustainable longer-term plans for buildings that will serve the eventual team ministry in the Vale of Leven
- In the short-term promoting the churches as welcoming and accessible spaces for various forms of community events and meetings
